CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT IN 1864

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
How it was.

The editor of the Rio Abajo Press in his last issue gives his readers to understand that he did not belong to the Perea party last fall.

This may be true. We certainly will not controvert its truth. He was, however, strongly suspected by the opposition party, of belonging to the Perea party when he came here to attend the session of the Legislature which was begun in December last. The opposition party knew that the Perea party had elected him. They knew that he came here from a county which had given Col. Perea 501 majority, and that he had run on the same ticket and had received about the same majority. This circumstance led many, besides the opposition party, to believe that he was what he appeared to be and what the record of the election showed him to be.

So strongly did the opposition party suspect him for belonging to the Perea party that when he made a motion to the effect that the rules which had governed previous Houses of Representatives should govern the one then just organized it was voted down by the majority which the opposition party had in the House. They were not willing that he should have the credit of carrying so simple a measure. The suspicion rested upon him until he became the advocate of a certain measure relating to the revision of the Code. This measure owed its paternity to Army and anything he would favor was all right because he belonged to the opposition party. That measure embraced in itself the distribution of fifteen hundred dollars among six gentlemen, of whom our neighbor was one. We would not intimate that his share of these spoils had influence in removing the suspicion which had previously rested upon him. He might consider it a luxury which it would be useless to deny among those who know him but which would subject the Editor of the Gazette to a suit for libel. Suffice it to say that from that time forward he was not a suspicious member of the House.

There is a circumstance connected with our neighbor's legislative career which his constituents should not forget and of which we will here remind them. It may serve to show them his devotion to the opposition party. The establishment of a Territorial government for Arizona transferred Arizona County to that Territory and thereby left a vacancy of one member in the House of Representatives for this Territory. The question was raised whether the member should be awarded to Bernalillo county, which has not a representation equal to her population, and which always gives a large majority against the opposition party, or whether he should be awarded to Rio Arriba County which has a larger representation in the House than her population entitles her to, and which always gives a large majority in favor of the opposition party. On the question between the counties the vote was a tie, with the member from Bernalillo in his seat. Without him in his seat Rio Arriba County could carry the day, increase her power in the Legislature and increase the influence of the opposition party. The balance of the story is a short one. The member from Bernalillo went home when the session was little more than half finished and left the majority of the opposition party to swindle his county out of her just rights. His absence from his seat had the desired effect, and had it not been for the veto of Gov. Connelly the conduct of our immaculate neighbor would have let Bernalillo county be overhauled in the contest for her just rights.

The veto prevented the consummation of the wrong. We do not know whether or not this is one of the vetoes which our neighbor has made the cause of so much grumbling.

On this article, neighbor, do not bring a suit for libel. Remember that in New Mexico the truth of the alleged libel can be adduced as evidence by the defence. There is danger in that.

The right Spirit.

In a speech delivered at Chicago, in the latter part of April, Maj. Genl. D. E. Sickles, among other things said: "Let it (the rebellion) succeed, and you will see it form an alliance with the new despotic monarchy of Mexico away towards the South, just now established under French protection, but not destined to live after this war is closed. For if I survive this war and the suppression of this rebellion, allow me to say here tonight that I enlist for that cause as this is over."

The spirit which prompted Genl. Sickles to declare his intention to volunteer for the assistance of the Mexican Republic, doubtless animated the breast of many veteran officers and soldiers who will, as soon as the war in which they are now engaged is ended, take up arms in behalf of unfortunate Mexico and not lay them down until Napoleon's notions of an American empire shall be overturned, and "the new despotic monarchy" shall have been overthrown. With the government of the United States firmly established under the constitution, tested by the front ordeal of an unexampled civil war, it will be more than ever the arbiter of the destiny of this continent. It cannot, with the power which it will be able to wield, permit the permanent establishment of a royal dynasty at our very doors is now being attempted by the French. All the traditions of national policy in which all the parties in the country have concurred, and the enforcement of which all have demanded, forbid it. Besides these our soldiers who have been schooled in the art of war; who have seen its hardships; who have been participants in the hardest fought battles the sun has ever looked upon, will with a voice that will make the Emperor Napoleon tremble on his throne, demand the expulsion of Maximilian from the capital of the Montezumas, and the re-establishment of the republican institutions which were modeled after those upon which our own government is established, and which bring to the people the greatest blessings vouchsafed to man by civil government.

The troubles of the times may impede "Manifest Destiny" for the present, but those very troubles are forming the elements which will at the end of the troubles give an impetus to our natural inclination, as a people, in the direction of preserving to Republic on the American continent republican governments.

A delegation (of two) of the party went to Albuquerque this week. What their business is, none of our business, but we guess there will be a grand powwow between them and the three members of the same party who live in the Rio Abajo. The concern evidently needs tinkering and better political tinkers, in a very small way, could not have been selected for the purpose than our estimable Secretary, and our amiable contemporary of the Rio Abajo Press. The people of the Territory have witnessed some of their handiwork in this line during the past year.

We guess, too, that the meeting between these two will be productive of more harmonious results than one that took place between them in the month of February of last year. The Press of next week will not, we venture to say, announce the arrival or departure of the "Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Sonora and Chihuahua." In this, however, we may be mistaken, and it is best to await and see.

It is said that Judge Knapp, after having refused to do so when the attorneys for the parties interested were present, opened the United States District Court at Albuquerque, after the said attorneys had left the town, and gave judgment in default, in several cases in which large amounts were involved.

From what we have heard in reference to the matter we have no doubt but the conduct of Judge Knapp in the premises is highly commendable and prejudicial not only to the litigants but to the administration of justice.

On Monday Messrs. Staab & Bro. opened their large stock of dry goods, clothing, groceries and hardware, which arrived from the States on Saturday. Their assortment is most complete, embracing every variety of goods that may be desired by the wholesale or retail dealer.

In the early part of the week the prisoners taken from Capt. Skillman's party in Texas, of whom we made mention two or three weeks ago, arrived in the city in charge of Lieut. Nelson. We have not learned what disposition will be made of them.

Genl. Carleton and the party which we mentioned last week as having accompanied him to Forts Bascom and Samner returned to the city on Thursday. All seem to have enjoyed the visit much.

The Indians at Fort Samner are represented to be doing well in their agricultural work and satisfied with their condition.

There is one school in operation which is attended by about two hundred Indian children and others will be opened as soon as houses can be provided for their use.

The health of the Indians is good. The inconvenience which they at first experienced in regard to health, consequent upon a change of mode of life is now to a great measure removed and in the future there will be little or no inconvenience in this respect.

Up to the present date over seven thousand Navajos have surrendered themselves to the military authorities and all of them, rich and poor, will have their homes at the Bosque Redondo. Those who have not now given themselves up are the worst part of the tribe, thieves and robbers, who will in time be attended to and punished.

Mr. Henry Mercurio, of Tierra Amarilla, is in the city this week and reports all things in that part of the Territory as in a good condition. Seven roving Navajos stole a few head of horses and cattle in the early part of the month.

On Saturday last Messrs. Spiegelberg Bros. received, per train from Leavenworth, from the east a large assortment of goods of every description, with which they will be able to accommodate their customers, wholesale and retail, at reasonable rates.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Capt. A. P. Garrison, Chief Commissary of Subsistence, inviting bids for furnishing Fort Marcy with fresh beef for one year beginning on the first of July next.

Lieut. Col. Chaves arrived in this city from Fort Whipple on Monday last.

There are now eleven hundred more Navajos at Fort Canby awaiting transportation to the Bosque Redondo. They have a large quantity of stock which they propose to take with them.

The rains of the present week have done a great deal towards advancing the vegetation in this vicinity, which has heretofore been very backward in consequence of the scarcity of water and the unusual coldness of the spring.

The attention of the reader is directed to the advertisements of Capt. Van Vleet of Fort Garland.

In consequence of the late arrival of the mail from the States this week we are unable to say what progress has been made in the fighting that was begun in Virginia on the 7th and 8th of this month.

We are pleased to be able to announce to his bachelor friends that Mr. A. M. Hunt took unto himself on Thursday evening a better half to share with him the joys and sorrows of this life. The bride's name was Miss Lucita M. Alderete.

The other bachelors had better go and do similarly.

Dr. Henry Hilgert has been appointed Assistant U. S. Assessor for this and Santa Ana Counties. See the advertisement.

Married,
On Thursday evening, May 25, 1864, at the Cathedral, by Rev. J. M. Conner, Augustin M. Hunt to Miss Lucita M. Alderete, both of this city.
